

Publication of official announcements

Information on the publishing of official announcements online by EU countries

An official announcement is the publication of official judicial and governmental announcements which are not of a legislative nature or do not in any other sense contain binding rules, and which are published in electronic form in State Gazettes and/or Official Journals.

Many EU countries make their official announcements available online. However, the legal frameworks and practices affecting how this is done varies between countries. In order to assist in making these publications more accessible this section collects the information on how each EU country publishes their official announcements online

The content of the national pages reflects the situation within the specific EU country.
