

Training material

The European e-Justice Portal is one of the tools contributing to the development of European judicial training. By providing access to information and other educational material, it significantly increases the number of people who can self-train and/or incorporate European legislation into their training sessions.

In line with  UNESCO's 2012 Paris OER (Open Educational Resources) Declaration, the European Commission wants to do as much as possible to promote open educational resources and open courseware for legal practitioners.

There are many reference sites with useful resources for European judicial training at local, regional or national level. Also, the Commission has produced training materials in various areas of European legislation in response to specific needs stemming from the degree of technicality or the high number of legal professionals dealing with them.

This advice for training providers collection of practical tips with examples for all training providers can be of help when conceiving and organizing their training activities

Training material on the following topics is available and ready for use by legal practitioners and/or training providers:

EU law in general

Civil law

Criminal law

Legislation against organised crime

Human rights

Rights of the child

Non-discrimination

Gender equality

Administrative law

Environmental law

Intellectual property

Training methodology

This page is maintained by the European Commission. The information on this page does not necessarily reflect the official position of the European Commission. The Commission accepts no responsibility or liability whatsoever with regard to any information or data contained or referred to in this document. Please refer to the legal notice with regard to copyright rules for European pages.

Last update: 08/02/2019