At the 14th EJM-civil annual meeting of 21/22 January 2016 in Brussels, the Commission announced three priority areas for the developing of operations of the EJM in 2016:

- reflection on putting in place electronic case handling of cases dealt by EJM contact points

- to make additional efforts to increase the Network's visibility based on several tools developed in 2015 which will be made available in the course of 2016. The new leaflet about "How to use the EJM-civil", the poster to be distributed at courts, making available improved EJM content on the European e-Justice Portal and a guide to good practice for contact points on making the EJM-civil visible among practitioners.

The meeting also dealt with good practices for the functioning of Network structures at national level which facilitate and promote regular communication with all national EJM-civil members, such as by way of organising meetings at national level and to extend the discussion on issues raised at EJM meetings also to the national level.

A good example of experience and actions in the context of the European Day of Justice was presented. The Commission encouraged other Member States to take inspiration from this example and to do the same.
