European payment order - BelgiumArticle 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

Under the Belgian Judicial Code (Code judiciaire/Gerechtelijk Wetboek), the courts that have jurisdiction to issue a European payment order, depending on the place and on the subject matter of the case, are the civil magistrate's court (juge de paix/vrederechter), the court of first instance (tribunal de première instance/rechtbank van eerste aanleg), the commercial court (tribunal de l'entreprise/ondernemingsrechtbank) and the labour tribunal (tribunal du travail /arbeidsrechtbank).

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

Depending on the circumstances there are several courses that may be open to a party wishing to secure a review of a decision.

- First, Article 1051 of the Judicial Code provides that an appeal on points of fact and law (appel/hoger beroep) may be lodged against a judgment within one month of service of the judgment, or in some cases within one month of notice of the judgment given under the second and third paragraphs of Article 792 of the Code. This applies whether or not both parties appeared in the proceedings.

- Second, Article 1048 of the Code provides that where a judgment is given in default of appearance of one of the parties, an objection (opposition/oppositie) may be entered, likewise within one month of service of the judgment or in some cases within one month of notice of the judgment given under the second and third paragraphs of Article 792 of the Code.

- Where neither of those remedies is any longer available against a judgment of a civil court, (or of a criminal court ruling on the civil aspects of a case before it), a party may in certain circumstances be able to make an application seeking an extraordinary review under Article 1133 of the Code (requête civile /herroeping van het gewijsde), within six months of learning of the judgment, with a view to having the judgment revoked.

The timelimits set out above for appeal, objection and application for extraordinary review do not affect:

- timelimits laid down in imperative provisions of supranational and international law;

- the provision in Article 50 of the Judicial Code that allows a timelimit after which an entitlement lapses to be extended under certain conditions laid down by law;

- the possibility of applying the general principle of law, repeatedly confirmed by the Belgian Court of Cassation, according to which the time allowed for the performance of an act is extended in favour of a party who has been prevented from performing the act by force majeure.

Article 29(1)(c) - Means of communication

The means of communication that are accepted by and available to the Belgian courts for purposes of the Regulation are confined to two: the form A application in Annex I may be lodged directly, with the supporting documents, at the registry of the court with jurisdiction; or the same form, with the supporting documents, may be sent to the court by registered post.

Article 29(1)(d) - Accepted languages

For purposes of Article 21(2)(b), Belgium does not accept languages other than the official language or languages of the place of enforcement as provided in Belgian domestic legislation.

European payment order - Czech Republic

Article 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

In the Czech Republic, the applicable rules for determining which courts have jurisdiction to issue a European order for payment are the general legal provisions governing jurisdiction in civil law matters contained in Act No 99/1963 ('Code of Civil Procedure').

Jurisdiction for the subject matter is governed by Sections 9 to 12 and territorial jurisdiction by Sections 84 to 89a of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Given the type of cases envisaged, the courts with jurisdiction in the subject matter will normally be the district courts, while the criterion for determining territorial jurisdiction will normally be the place of residence/registered office of the defendant.

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

The court with jurisdiction to hear review proceedings is the court which handed down the judgment at first instance.

The competent court must apply Article 20 of the Regulation directly. An appeal is possible against decisions rejecting an application for review.

Article 29(1)(c) - Means of communication

In accordance with Section 42 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the following are acceptable means of communication:

(a) electronic mail with an advanced electronic signature in accordance with Electronic Signatures Act No 227/2000, as amended;

(b) electronic mail without an advanced electronic signature;

(c) fax.

Submissions by the means referred to in paragraphs (b) and (c) must be followed up by sending in the original copies of the forms within three days, failing which the court will not take the submissions into consideration.

Article 29(1)(d) - Accepted languages

The only language accepted by the Czech Republic is Czech.

European payment order - Germany

Preliminary remarks

Details of the implementation in Germany of the Regulation creating a European order for payment procedure are laid down in an Act on the improvement of cross-border claims enforcement and service of documents.

Article 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

The District Court (Amtsgericht) of Wedding in Berlin has jurisdiction for the whole of Germany. The contact details for the Court are as follows:

Amtsgericht Wedding

13343 Berlin

Tel: +49 (0)30 90156 - 0

Fax: +49 (0)30 90156 - 203

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

The court with competence for the order for payment procedure is the District Court of Wedding.

Any subsequent disputes are brought before the court indicated by the applicant as having international jurisdiction. Should this court not be competent to rule in the dispute, it can refer the matter to the German court having international jurisdiction. International jurisdiction is generally governed by the relevant EU legal act, e.g. Regulation No 1215/2012.

The scope and operation of the review procedure is already largely laid down in Article 20 of the Regulation. The Act provides that the applicant must demonstrate the facts which in the applicant's opinion justify annulling the European order for payment. The decision of the German court having international jurisdiction (see above) cannot be appealed. If it declares the European order for payment to be null and void, this will end the procedure under the Regulation.

By way of exception, for labour matters within the meaning of Sections 2 and 46b(2) of the Labour Courts Law (Arbeitsgerichtsgesetz), the competent court is the labour court having international jurisdiction that would be competent to rule on proceedings for a full judgment (Urteilsverfahren).

Article 29(1)(c) - Means of communication

An application for a European order for payment can be made on paper and electronically, if the competent court allows this type of application. At the District Court of Wedding, applications can be made electronically. Special software is required in order to make an electronic application at the District Court of Wedding. More information can be found here: <https://service.berlin.de/dienstleistung/327380/>.

European payment order - Italy

With reference to the information to be communicated to the European Commission by the Member States by 12 June 2008 under Article 29 of Regulation (EC) No 1896/2006, please find attached a table showing the relationship between the Italian provisions and the Community provisions.

It should be pointed out that, in accordance with Article 2(2)(d) of the Regulation, account has been taken of claims arising from non-contractual obligations. With regard to Article 29(b), the need seems to arise to distinguish between the cases referred to in Article 20(1) and those in Article 20(2) as the first paragraph refers to relief from the effects of the expiry of time where such time has expired through no fault of the defendant, whereas Article 20(2) applies where the order for payment was clearly wrongly issued or in other exceptional circumstances, such as, for example, intent on the part of the party.

In the first set of cases the relevant legislation concerns late appeals against payment orders, for which provision is made under Article 650 of the Italian Code of Civil Procedure (CPC) and which must be lodged with the same court that issued the warning letter. The approach in this case is standard and can be applied extensively, although the court must rule on the applicability of the deadline stipulated in the final subsection of Article 650 CPC, as it applies to Article 20(1)(b) of the Regulation.

In the second set of cases, however, the solution currently practised is that of the ordinary application or, depending on the circumstances, an application to the competent court of first instance, although the court must rule on whether the rules applicable derive from Italian law or can be inferred from the Regulation.

With regard to the means of communication referred to in Article 29(1)(b) of the Regulation, taken in conjunction with Article 7(5), it has been decided to refer to communication on paper only here given that for other means of communication (electronic) compliance with the specific Italian rules is required and, according to the Regulation, the means of communication must be ones which 'are available' to the courts concerned.

Article 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

The following courts have jurisdiction to issue a European order for payment:

The Justice of the Peace [Giudice di Pace] for claims of up to:

- 1) EUR 5 000.00, for general claims;
- 2) EUR 20 000.00 for claims concerning compensation for damages caused by vehicles and boats, within the conditions laid down in Article 2(2)(d)(i) of Regulation (EC) No 1896/2006.

Justices of the Peace have jurisdiction for claims of any amount involving relations between owners or occupiers of dwellings concerning smoke, fumes, heat, noise, vibrations and similar nuisances exceeding normal levels pursuant to Article 7(3)(3) of the Italian Code of Civil Procedure, in the circumstances referred to in Article 2(2)(d)(i) of Regulation (EC) No 1896/2006.

The Justice of the Peace also has jurisdiction for cases involving interest or incidentals for late payment of pension or welfare benefits.

The ordinary civil court or the court of appeal as the court of first and final instance have jurisdiction in all other cases and exclusive jurisdiction as provided for by Italian legislation.

In particular, on matters not excluded by Article 2, the ordinary civil courts have jurisdiction in cases of:

- 1) claims relating to agricultural contracts (in this case, the specialised agricultural divisions of the ordinary court have jurisdiction pursuant to Article 9 of Law No 29 of 14 February 1990);
- 2) claims in respect of patents and trademarks (in this case the special business sections of the ordinary courts have jurisdiction pursuant to Article 1 et. seq. of Legislative Decree No 168 of 27 June 2003 - most recent wording)
- 3) claims under shipping law, in particular for damage in connection with the collision of vessels; damage caused by vessels when anchoring or mooring or performing any other manoeuvres in ports and other stopping places; damage caused by the use of loading and unloading gear and the handling of goods in ports; damage caused by vessels to nets and other fishing equipment; charges and compensation for assistance, rescue and recovery; reimbursement of expenditure and awards for recovering wreckage under Article 589 of the Navigation Code.
- 4) cases and proceedings relating to public contracts for works, supplies and services of Community significance, to which one of the undertakings referred to in Article 3 of Legislative Decree No 168 of 27 June 2003 (as amended) is party to or where one of these participates in a consortium or a temporary grouping to which the contracts were awarded or where the ordinary court has jurisdiction (in this case, the specialised business sections of the ordinary courts also have jurisdiction pursuant to Article 3 of Legislative Decree No 168 of 27 June 2003).

On matters not excluded by Article 2 of the Regulation, the Court of Appeal has jurisdiction as the court of first and final instance for claims relating to compensation for damages caused by agreements restricting competition and abuse of dominant position (Article 32(2) of Law No 287 of 10 October 1990).

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

The court with jurisdiction for the review referred to in Article 20(1) of Regulation No 1896/2006/EC and the related proceedings, is the court which issued the order pursuant to Article 650 of the Italian Code of Civil Procedure.

The court with jurisdiction for the review referred to in Article 20(2) of Regulation No 1896/2006/EC and the related proceedings, is the ordinary court responsible for the order, in accordance with the commonly applicable rules.

European payment order - Latvia

Article 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

The courts that have jurisdiction to issue a European order for payment are the district or city courts (rajona (pilsētas) tiesas), which are the courts of first instance in civil matters. The particular district or city court is generally the court of the defendant's declared place of residence (deklarētā dzīvesvieta), or, if the defendant has no declared place of residence, the defendant's home address (dzīvesvietas adrese) or registered office (juridiskā adrese). A list of courts can be consulted here.

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

Section 485.1(1)(1) of the Law on Civil Procedure states that an application seeking a review of a European order for payment issued by a district or city court must be submitted to the appropriate regional court (apgabaltiesa). There are five regional courts that hear civil cases. Each regional court has jurisdiction extending over the areas served by a number of district or city courts. A list of courts can be consulted here.

An application for review of an order must be submitted within 45 days of the date on which the person becomes aware of the circumstances that constitute grounds for review under the European Union legislation referred to in the first paragraph of the Section.

An application that does not indicate the grounds for review under the Regulation will not be admitted and will be returned to the applicant. The court will also decline to consider a repeat application, unless it appears that the grounds relied upon for reviewing the order have changed. The court's decision in this respect can be challenged by lodging an ancillary complaint (blakus sūdzība).

An application for review of an order is dealt with in written proceedings. If, when it has considered the application, the regional court finds that the conditions for reviewing the order are met, it will annul the contested order in its entirety, and refer the case back for reexamination by the court of first instance.

If the regional court finds that the pleas relied upon in the application do not warrant a review of the order, it will reject the application. The court's decision can be challenged by lodging an ancillary complaint. The procedure for submitting and examining ancillary complaints of this kind are laid down in Chapter 55 of the Law on Civil Procedure. A translation of the Law into English is available here.

Article 29(1)(c) - Means of communication

Documents for the court are to be submitted in paper form, either by post or by hand.

The courts will also accept documents submitted electronically which the appropriate person has signed with a secure electronic signature recognised in Latvia. In addition, in the light of the eIDAS Regulation and the EU digital single market strategy, amendments to the Law on electronic documents have been drawn up and the necessary technical adjustments are being made to allow electronic documents from other EU Member States to be accepted provided that they are signed in accordance with the requirements of the eIDAS Regulation.

European payment order - Poland

Article 29(1)(a) - Courts with jurisdiction

The competent courts are district courts (sądy rejonowe) and regional courts (sądy okręgowe), whose territorial and subject-matter jurisdiction are defined in the Code of Civil Procedure (Kodeks postępowania cywilnego) of 17 November 1964 (Journal of Laws 2014, item 101, as amended). Subject-matter jurisdiction is governed by Articles 16, 17 and 461(11) in conjunction with Article 50516(1) of the Code of Civil Procedure, and territorial jurisdiction by Articles 27 to 46 and 461(1) in conjunction with Article 50516(1) of the Code.

Applications for refusal of enforcement within the meaning of Article 22 (Refusal of enforcement) of the Regulation are to be submitted, in accordance with Article 115323(1) of the Code of Civil Procedure, to the regional court of the debtor's domicile or registered office or, in the absence of such a court, to the regional court in whose region enforcement is pending or is being carried out. In accordance with Article 115323(3), the respondent may present his position on the case within a time limit set by the court.

With reference to Article 23 (Stay or limitation of enforcement), on an application from the debtor the competent district court may, in accordance with Article 115320(1) of the Code of Civil Procedure, stay enforcement proceedings being conducted on the basis of a European payment order. Also on an application from the debtor, this court may limit enforcement to protective measures or make enforcement conditional on the creditor lodging an appropriate security.

Article 29(1)(b) - Review procedure

With reference to Article 20(1) of the Regulation, debtor protection takes the form of rescheduling of the time limit for submitting a statement of opposition to a European payment order. This area is governed by Part One, Title VI, Chapter 5 (Non-compliance with time limits and arrangements for rescheduling) (Articles 167-172) of the Code of Civil Procedure. Under these rules an application for rescheduling of the time limit must be lodged not later than one week after the reason for non-compliance with the time limit ceases to apply in the form of a letter to the court before which the proceedings were to take place. The letter must substantiate the circumstances justifying the application. At the same time as lodging the application for rescheduling of the time limit, the party should also take the procedural step of submitting an application for re-examination of the European payment order. If more than a year has passed since the time limit was not met, it may be rescheduled only in special cases. As a rule, the fact of lodging an application for rescheduling does not cause proceedings or enforcement of a judgment to be suspended.

As regards Article 20(2) of the Regulation, the rules laid down in Article 50520 of the Code of Civil Procedure apply. Applications must meet the requirements of written pleadings and indicate the grounds for annulling the European payment order. The competent court for examining such an application is the court which issued the order. Before annulling a European payment order the court must hear the applicant or require him to make a statement in writing.

Article 29(1)(c) - Means of communication

Applications for a European payment order and other pleadings in such proceedings may only be submitted in writing. Documents may be lodged with the competent court either in person or by post.

Article 29(1)(d) - Accepted languages
